

I think the coming attractions to many of the shows on T.V. are not appropriate to the general viewing audience and should be re-evaluated for their content. It's one thing to be able to not allow your children to watch a particular show, but we have no control over the exposure to violent images they get all the time, when coming attractions are shown without warning. Please consider limiting the violence allowed in coming attraction segments on T.V.